Bryan came to coaching English communication skills after 20 years of military service as an officer in the Royal Air Force that included a period at a NATO base in Italy and Staff service in Headquarters in Germany and UK.

He is bilingual and has developed a highly focused and effective study methodology that is centred on strengthening and expanding the foundation of the client's existing communications skills while consolidating and reinforcing new competencies by identifying those essential elements of spoken language that the client often recognizes and understands but avoids using or does not use spontaneously. His methodology is particularly suited to motivated clients such as post graduate university students, business professionals, academics and administrators whose career progress will be significantly facilitated by a marked improvement in their communications skills.

Accomplished communicators in English, especially in the working environment, speak and write with accuracy, brevity, correctness and spontaneity. Clients, also, rightly require the benefits of a language course to be immediate, tangible and significantly greater than its cost and lost opportunity. Bryan's methodology will help you achieve these objectives by elevating your communication skills in English to the level of your aspirations and professional competencies revealing a deeper, more satisfying and rewarding command of language enhancing your ability to comprehend and influence the world around you.
